Spreading the Good News with Good News Today

Good News Today to Macon, GA

By Jim Dearman

We begin each broadcast: “Welcome to Good News Today, the program where you will always find good news, no matter what else is happening in the world.” Our goal is to have that heard by an increasing number of precious souls before they go into eternity. Toward that end, we are happy to announce the addition of a new broadcast in the Macon, Georgia area. Beginning Sunday, May 20, 2018, at 6:30 a. m., thousands of homes in the Macon area will have access to Good News Today on WGXA-ABC 16. The very fine Hartley Bridge Road congregation in Macon is making this outreach possible, and we are grateful for their confidence and for their willingness to bring the program to their area. The coverage will include the Warner Robins area, home to Robins Air Force Base. The program will be accessible to Mercer University in Macon and to thousands of residents in this growing area, about two hours south of Atlanta.

The brethren at Hartley Bridge Road, where Steve Waller is the long-time preacher, will handle requests that come in for Bible correspondence courses. We pray that over time many souls will hear and respond to the gospel through this outreach. Much of the state of Georgia has long been considered a mission field, with far fewer congregations than the neighboring states of Alabama, Mississippi, and Tennessee. The brethren in the Macon area face opposition from large denominational bodies, and they need programs like Good News Today to assist in finding fertile soil in a challenging environment. It is our fervent prayer that much good will come from this new effort, both in evangelizing the lost and in edifying the saved.

Total Households in Metro Area: 295,200

Studio and Office Update

We are delighted to announce to our readers and supporters that the building loan has now been retired. We had borrowed $18,000 to make the necessary renovations to the old high school football stadium the church purchased on six acres of land. We added an 18 X 24 building to the existing structure to house our studio and offices. The space is ideal for our needs; and, thanks to the generous contributions from supporters of the work, we are now enjoying it debt-free. We are so grateful to the individual Christians and to the congregations who support Good News Today with your contributions and prayers. We pray that God will continue to bless our labors together in this work.
